An Owl Story.

The following story, from the Shawneetown Argus, is decidedly rich, and will do well to pass round : And by the way-speaking of owls, reminds us of a rich dialogue that recently occurred between our friend Andy S-, an honest Dutch drayman, and the prince of all owldom, who inhabits the richest portion of Lower Egypt, a few miles in the interior of our town. Andy had been visiting the country in the prosecution of an honest livelihood, and on his return home, night had thrown her pall of darkness over the earth. just as he was passing over the territory of his owlship. At this critical moment, our friend met with a sad mishap, by driving his dray into a deep chuck hole, filled with freezing mud and water. After two or three ineffectual attempts to pull out, Andy remembering the advice of Herenles, put his shoulder to the wheel in a manly effort to extricate himself from his gloomy and perilous situation. His owlship who was perched upon a limb at a short distance from the scene of discomfiture, viewed the labors of the Dutchman in the dark as a decided infringement upon his princely preroga ative, and in order to express his indignation in language that could not be misunderstood, he called out in a loud and shrill voice-"He hoo he hoo he hoo he a-r-e you, he hoe he hoo ho hoo a-r-e you, ho hoo ho hoo a-r-e you ?" "I ish Anty te tray triver, from Schoncetown. by shing, un I ish fast in the tam mud hole mit mine tray an a loat of corn, vot I is got to fas mine hoses mit

Andy paused for a reply, but neither reply nor assistance came to the relief of his troubled spirits.— He renewed his efforts at the wheel; and when about to succeed in extricating himself from the mud, his hold involuntarily relaxed, as his cars were again saluted with the dolorous cry of-

"He hoo ho hoo ho hoo a-r-e yeu-ho hoo ho hoo son will please favor us with the privilege of showing them ho hoe a-r-e you?" and with that peculiar chuckle of the large owl as it ceases its cry, which so much resembles the laugh of a human being, it continued -" he he he ha ha ha." "I ish Anty te tray triver from Schoonetown, I ass, you." but was permitted to wend his way peaceably to his home, as best he could, through the mud and dark.

A few months after the occurrence above detailed. our friend was passing over the same road; and near the same spot he discovered one of his neighbors, whose wagon was loaded with live hogs to be completely stalled in the mire. Andy gallantly tendered largest and best selected stock of AMERICAN MARBLE his services, loaded a portion of his hogs into his own that has ever been shipped to North Carolina. He has also a full supply of EGYPTIAN AND ITALIAN MARBLES, After completing this kindhearted arrangement of any purposes, such as Monuments, Tombs, Head and Foot Stones, or Furniture, Mantle Pieces, &c. In short, any kind of Marble Work will be furnished as low, and of as that this was an unlucky mud hole; for he believed Andy's, the countryman, (who by the way, was fait was the same in which he had seen him (Andy) fast a few weeks before.
